The Constitional Amendments.

By reference to another page of this paper it will be seen that eight amend- of local option applied to the road quesments are to be voted upon at the com- tion. ing election. As to merits or demerits of the various amendments the voters and but few have definite opinions. In brief form the gist of the amendments and the arguments for and against.

The first of these amendments proposes a change in the manner of paying members of the general assembly. The second authorizes county courts and township boards to levy a special tex for roads and bridges.

Initiative and referendum. The fourth is to said two members of the supreme court. The fifth is for the separation of the sources of state and local taxation.

Make it a in his neferious work. This amendment provides a remedy against such hasty legislation. A salary of $750 is small enough for the man instrusted with the important matter of legis lating for the stupendous interests concerning the great state of Missouri. Those who are fitted to represent their constituency in legi-lating upon public affairs are certainly entitled to reasonable compensation. The Increased cost of living at the state capital has rendered an increase of salary necessary. The amendment will add to the dignity of the office and insure deliberation in the making of laws.

It is not always that the men best fitted to be law makers are able to sacrifice their own interests in behalf of the community. The position of only way the Taney county voter can representative should not be restricted. because of smallness of salary, to men with money to burn, but should be open date for the legislature, who will in to any man who is fit, on the basis of turn vote for a Republican senstor itness and nearness to the masses of piedged to the principle of protection. fruit- or stock-raising, or intend to con- to me directed, in favor of A. Against this amendment it is urged that the present law prevents ever-legislation by speedy adjournments, that there is more danger in extending legislative sessions than in shortening them, and that the increased pay will lead men to seek the position for the salary. The additional expense is objected to, and dent regarding Haskell's connection it is also claimed that it is desirable to with the Creek Indian lands, Haskell have a practical limitation of seventy says: "I charge you (Roosevelt) with days to the duration of legislative knowing that there has been so delay sessions.
